Gavel & Gown Software Partners with I-Quest

Gavel & Gown Software Inc. Partner with I-Quest Limited to Deliver Practice Management Solutions to the UK and Ireland

Toronto, ON (March 11, 2009) - Gavel & Gown Software Inc., a leading developer of practice management software for law firms, announced today a formal partnership with I-Quest Limited, a leading London based legal technology consulting firm and service provider. Under the terms of the agreement, I-Quest will become the Amicus distribution partner for the United Kingdom and Ireland.

I-Quest has been providing high quality IT consulting and services to the legal community in the UK for over six years. Their team of experienced consultants offer strategy consulting, development, implementation, project management, support and training on a number of technologies. Their impressive client list boasts several of the UK's top legal firms.

"We are thrilled to be partnering with I-Quest as our new distribution partner for the United Kingdom and Ireland," says Les Hansen, Vice President Sales and Marketing, Gavel & Gown Software Inc. "Our strategy is to build upon our North American success by expanding our presence in key International markets. I-Quest is ideally situated to help us pursue this strategy in the UK."

Amicus software products are used by law firms in over 80 countries. The product line consists of practice management solutions, accounting solutions and mobile technologies.

"We are very pleased to be joining the Amicus distribution team," commented Kevin Mackay, Managing Director, I-Quest. "Amicus software solutions are world class products and are already being used by over 300 law firms in the UK. We believe they represent great value to our customers and can help legal firms and legal corporate departments to significantly streamline their operations. We also believe the Amicus solutions complement our other applications and vice versa, enabling us to offer total legal management solutions."
